

Join a Professional Learning Community

The OEC is working with the RESC Alliance to offer continued professional development related to remote learning. One of the opportunities is engagement in a professional learning community. A professional learning community (PLC) is a team of educators who share ideas to enhance their teaching practice and create a learning environment where all students can reach their fullest potential.

There is a limited number of cohorts forming that will meet one time a month for one hour to share ideas and develop plans to successful remote learning experiences for children, families and staff.

Session Options:

If you are interested in forming a PLC in your community or program contact Diane Gozemba at dgozemba@eastconn.org

Indicate if you are interested in any of the following topics:

Supporting Social-Emotional Development & Play through Technology

Shifting In and Out of Remote Learning: Making a Plan

Engaging Families in Their Child's Learning

Developmentally Appropriate Practices During Remote Learning

- Sessions will be facilitated by Early Childhood Specialists from EASTCONN, ACES, CES, CREC, LEARN, and EdAdvance. Our team will help you plan effective virtual instructional practices for remote learning and explore various strategies to engage children and families. In addition, the PLC will provide an opportunity for programs to share how they are meeting the needs of young learners and help programs build on successes and address barriers.
